Remote Check Deposit

Make daily check deposits to your bank account right from your office

With Remote Check Deposit from Bridgewater Savings, any business can capture an electronic image of a check right in their office and securely make an electronic deposit into their checking account. You'll reduce the costs of check processing and transportation, gain the convenience of extended deposit cutoffs, receive faster notification of returned items, and control multiple Accounts/Receivables locations - all right from your desktop!

Complete electronic check processing from image capture to bank deposit

Bridgewater Savings Bank is uniquely positioned to provide a total image deposit solution for businesses looking for the convenience and cost savings of electronic check processing. Our proven system includes high speed scanning equipment and software, and complete check processing services - from image capture to check clearing to funds deposited directly into your bank account - significantly faster than traditional paper processing. In short, we've replaced the manual process of moving paper checks between businesses and banks with a secure and complete electronic transaction.

How Remote Check Deposit works for you

The process is simple. Launch the software on your desktop, insert the checks into the scanner, and click the scan check icon. The checks are quickly scanned and the data is sent electronically to the check processing center. No more deposit slips to fill out or trips to the bank.

Remote Check Deposit records and permanently stores the entire check data including the customer name, date, dollar amount, and an exact replica of the front and back of the check. There's no need to ever make a photocopy of a check again.

Your check data may be instantly reconciled with virtually any account management software, and you can control the processing of multiple locations and share that information remotely with other people in the company. Plus, our technical support professionals will work with your team to install the equipment and software, and train your personnel.
